In general, counties are entitled to immunity from being sued in several circumstances under a legal concept known as sovereign immunity. And yet, counties get sued. A lot. This interesting and informative session will review when counties can and cannot be sued. It will also explore trends about the kinds of things counties are being sued over and the damage awards that result. We will use real world cases to demonstrate important concepts - because truth is often stranger than fiction.

Please join us for a one-hour CCAO 2nd Wednesday webinar on April 11 at 9:30 a.m. on “Sovereign Immunity Basics.”

Our speaker is J. Stephen Teetor, the leading litigation partner of the law firm of Isaac Wiles. Steve has over 35 years of civil trial experience and has tried over 100 civil jury trials for both defendants and plaintiffs. He frequently defends public entities and has defended CORSA member counties since its inception in 1986. Steve is a graduate of Capital University Law School with a Juris Doctor degree and The Ohio State University with a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration degree.

Click here to register for this exceptional educational opportunity. If you experience difficulty in connecting to the link above and you wish to register for the webinar, please email Mandi Fuerst, CCAO administrative assistant, and provide her with your email address. For additional information regarding the topic for this webinar, please contact Beth Miller, CORSA claim and litigation manager.